GREENEVILLE NEWS

A special observance of the National Emblem was held at the Greeneville Congregational Sunday school Sunday noon. The Woman's Relief carps No. 18, G. A. R., presented the school with a handsome silk flag which was accepted by Superintendent O. W. Carpenter in behalf of the school. The following was the programme carried out: Song, Beautiful Flag, by the school: recitation, Marguerite Suthill: original poem read by Miss Ethel Carpenter, which was written by Henry L. Redfield, entitled, Our National Emblem; song, Bring Back My Flag, Mary Lamb, with school chorus; presentation of the flag to the school by Mrs. G. D Fillmore in a few well chosen and spoken words. Superintendent G. D Fillmore in a few well chosen and spoken words. Superintendent Carpenter accepted the flag and said that the school cherished the gift and that it always will hold an honorable place in the Sunday school and that the episode had formed a warm friendship between the Sunday school and the G. A. R. The school gave a rising vote of thanks and saluted the flag. Song, Star Spangled Banner, Archie MacDougal, with the school chorus. Rev. C. H. ## ELKS' ANNUAL LODGE OF SORROY

Many Assist at Lodge of Sorrow-Winners of Prizes in Corn-Growing Competition-Three Liquor Raids Sunday in Kitchen Barrooms-Demented Woman Returned From West Hartford Home.

Like all the other longes of Elks in the United States and Canada, Norwich Podge, No. 430, observed the annual memorial day of the order on Sunday, convening the annual lodge of Sunday, convening the annual lodge of sorrow at the Elks' home, where impressive exercises were held in the Elk spirit of writing the faults of brothers upon the sands, their virtues upon the sands of love and memory.

At 230 o'clock the exercises were opened in the lodge room, with an attendance of about one hundred members, and Exalted Ruler William W. Beckwith presiding. The ritual for the lodge of sorrow was conducted by the lodge of the sorrow was conducted by the lodge of the sor

Another year has passed so quickly that to us it seems time files, and death, the grim visaged reaper, has reached forth and plucked from our midst four of our brothers. They have been transferred to that grand lodge on high, yet to live in the hearts we leave behind is not to die.

Our departed brothers await us beyond the shadowy portal; for them the Great Mystery is solved. Paraphrasing the words of the poet, James Whitcomb Riley, "They are not dead, they are just away. They have wandered into an unknown land and left us into an unknown land and left us dreaming how very fair it needs must be since they lingered there." We know not when our call will ome. There may be but a little time eft, and we know not what Destiny has in store for us; therefore, let us join together while there is yet a little time, that we may renew our vows of friendship and strengthen the ties of friendship and strengthen the ties of brotherhood before it is too late. That is the spirit of Elkdom.

And does this spirit cease with death? Never! An Elk is never forgotten, never forsaken. When he takes his obligation he is assured that file memory will live forever. Long after he is gone, and his every friend has joined him in the Grand Home—when none remains on earth who ever knew one remains on earth who ever knew im—his memory, graven on the me-lorial tablets of his lodge, will live on, and each succeeding year as the brothers pause in their festivities to do honor unto those who have departed never to return, he will hear his name called and some brother whom he has never known will say: There was a man—a big-hearted, whole-souled man. He was true to his obligation, to his brother, to his fellow man. He was an Elk-

These were the solo, My Shepherd is the Lord, My God (Greeky), sung by Brother Kinder, and the orchestral selection Nocturne, from Midsummer Night's Dream (Mendelssohn).
